Do my Math

Have you ever have a situation when the company refuses you at the stage of viewing resume? HR specialists read dozens every day, or even hundreds of profiles. This process is called CV screening, that is, the selection of candidates for the requirements of the vacancy on key criteria. There are many candidates, and to get an invitation to the interview, you need to somehow go through the HR filter. If at this stage you often encounter a refusal, most likely, with a summary there are problems.
